

Friday, January 11, 7:00 pm

Turlach Boylan and Jen Hamel

Irish traditional music

Flute, whistle, banjo, guitar and vocals

One-hour concert of lively Irish music and songs at 7 p.m., followed by Irish folk dancing for everyone from 8:15 – 10 p.m. All dances will be taught and called. No experience and no partner necessary. An evening of great fun!

Acclaimed flute and banjo player Turlach Boylan, originally from Derry, Ireland, teaches Irish music in Kansas City and plays with traditional music groups Glen Road and Kelly. Singer, songwriter and guitarist Jen Hamel performed for several years with Houston-based Celtic band Clandestine (4 CDs with them) and has a solo album of her own original songs called "A Fine Small Storm." She's now a Ph.D. student at MU in biological sciences.

Where: First Christian Church Activity Room, 101 N. Tenth St. (Corner of Walnut & Tenth in Columbia. Enter through the back door facing the parking lot, under the portico.)

Admission at the door:

$10 adults, $8 CMCAA members, students $5 with ID kids 14 & under free

more info: www.moceltic.org

Thank you to our 2007-2008 concert series sponsor, Stoney Creek Inn